WHOLE NUMBER 367.

GUMPTION,

Which is plain Common Sense, in United States language, without Educational Furbelows.
BY L. T. HOVERMALE.

Leaving God Out of Governmental Affairs.

Possibly some may say that such topics as the above should be left as subjects for sermons by the preachers. But all who have given the matter consideration will agree that the best sermon is not always from the pulpit. The sermons that have the most potent influence on the lives of men are the sermons that are daily lived by consecrated Christians, and the power that holds most good men to the paths of rectitude and honor is the sermon that Mother lived daily and hourly as she impressed character into the woof of the son's nature.

The life of every man or woman leaves its impress on those with whom they come in contact. The life of the most humble Christian is a more eloquent sermon than any that Spurgeon or Moody ever preached.

Why is it that so few people owe the stability of character that Christian influence gives to father? Why is it that every movement that has lifted the human race to higher and better things owes its success to the ideals that were instilled in the minds of men by Mother? The answer is written in flaming letters: Mother never leaves God out of her plans. Father does. Is it strange, then, that the very existence of society, state and church depends for perpetuity upon the influence of Mother?

Men who think lightly upon the matter say that you mustn't mix politics with religion. Even let that be true, if we would mix more religion with politics the politics would be wonderfully improved.

The above is merely introductory to what I want to say in regard to the great curse that menaces the home, the church, society and our government—intoxicating liquor. This is the curse that is damning more souls than all the other evils combined. It is powerful because it has behind it tremendous wealth, corrupt politics and the bestial passions of men. All of my life I have voted against the traffic, and for the past few years I have fought, as best I could, the traffic in the stuff. I have fought out of my plans and I fear that I have accomplished little.

I am weighing my words carefully for I know that at this time they may be distorted and twisted and misconstrued. It required a series of blows that culminated in one, seemingly unbearable, to bring me to a realization of the insignificance of man's own strength, and how impotent he is in the shaping of affairs when relying on his own strength. I know that my motives in writing this will be misjudged. These things cannot be avoided, and if they could I doubt if it would be best. If there were no battles to be fought there would be no means of ascertaining the courage of the soldiers. I see no reason why my asking for office should cause me to postpone the beginning of a duty too long delayed, and I have confidence in the Infinite Purpose of Him to believe that whatever the result may be it will be best for me.

In consecrating the remainder of my life to a fight against intoxicants and resultant evils I dare to distinctly avow that I shall rely on God's strength and wisdom and not my own.

I don't believe that God wants workers that are afraid or ashamed to acknowledge His leadership. I can't conceive of a man's being a Christian and even passively ignoring the corrupting influences of liquor and money in elections. It is beyond comprehension that a man can believe that he is a Christian and still vote for men who use whisky or money in elections. Men, what are you afraid of that keeps you from speaking out? Is the little county office that your friend or relative is interested in of sufficient importance to justify you in turning your back on God? We can't dodge the issue. We are answerable for our votes just like any of our other acts.

And, in the last analysis, can a county, state or nation prosper and progress that leave God out of their plans? History answers from every page: "No." Then, will God-fearing, God-loving Christians willingly turn over to Godless men the control of the governmental affairs, the execution of the laws that should be the protection of home and state? Or do you think that men who will deliberately use money and whisky to corrupt the morals and debase the citizenship of the county will make good officers? Will the man who defiantly breaks his manifest obligation to God in matters of morality hold sacred his obligation to his country?

These are questions that are vital to Christians and to Christianity. You can't conscientiously seek to excuse your voting for a candidate who uses whisky and money to corrupt voters on the ground that other Christians do it. Churchmembers may do so, but Christians don't.

And the refraining from voting for corruptionists is not enough. God expects and demands that every one of His followers fight sin. He expects you to be active, courageous and militant. Consequences don't count. No act that is righteous will injure anyone that ought not be injured. Sin and wrongful acts alone injure.

There is no such thing as a cowardly Christian.

An Appreciation.

To the voters of Morgan county: There has been much said in regard to efficiency of the different candidates for office. It is an imperative duty and one of the great elements of citizenship for every voter in the county who can possibly get to the polls to vote for men who are experienced and acquainted with their work. One of the most important offices in the county is the School Superintendent. There should be a careful selection made for this very important office.

Let us all get together in one solid phalanx and elect Jas. W. Davis; then we know for sure that we are getting one among the aspirants who can do the work efficiently.

Mr. Davis is not making the race for self aggrandizement, but for the purpose of elevating the standard of the schools, to carry out the true principles of the good work begun and to promote the progress of education in general by vitalizing and socializing the important facts connected with school work; to inspire the community to a better realization that an educational awakening must be brought about by co-operation of all who are interested in educational work.

Morgan county never has produced a better Superintendent than Mr. Davis. He has all the necessary qualifications, and as far as efficiency is concerned you can't find a better suited man in the country for the office to which he aspires. He is a true, noble, trust-worthy, broad-minded, fair and progressive gentleman, one who is not deceptive and stiff-necked. He extended a welcome hand and wore that broad smile just the same when he was not a candidate as he does to-day. He is every day alike.

I have been connected with Mr. Davis in his official work for quite awhile. I find him to be reasonable and honest in all his dealings toward those with whom he comes in contact. He is a faithful, conscientious and enthusiastic worker. He will still keep the schools in their aerial plight above rotten politics the next four years.

I believe the majority of the women, as well as the men in Morgan county are for the interest of their children. This is the reason they are going to vote for Mr. Davis, whom they have tried and know to be a good Superintendent.

We are going to elect Mr. Davis by an overwhelming majority, regardless of all the lies that may confront him.

We can truly say one thing of Mr. Davis, he didn't join the democratic ranks in order to get a piece of pie, but he was always a democrat of the highest type. When you cast your vote for him you know for a certainty that you are voting for a true-blue Democrat.

Let us stand behind the administration and not change at this present time and I will assure you that the financial affairs of the county will be properly taken care of and that the condition of things will not deteriorate.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN M. LYKINS.

Justice's Race Settled.

Polk Pendleton, candidate for Justice of the Peace for District 7, was in town Tuesday and informed the Courier that by agreement between A. F. Blevins, D. M. Rowland, Milford Smith and himself, all registered candidates for Magistrate in said district, all of them came off the track and gave Polk Pendleton a clear track. This was done because Elk Fork and Paint precincts had each had a term and Coffee Creek had not. This is the right spirit and means harmony in the Democratic ranks. 367-2

Hurt by Falling Tree.

Dutch Adkins was seriously hurt by a falling tree in the log woods near Lenox last week. He was struck by a limb and bruised internally.

Dr. H. V. Nickell reports his condition serious and thinks his recovery doubtful.

New Candidate.

Ed Day has filed his notification and declaration as a candidate for Justice of Peace for District No. 1, and his announcement will appear next week. Ed is a hustler and will put life into the race.

A CARD.

At a meeting of the pastors of the various churches of West Liberty it was unanimously agreed that we could do no less than to say that we must withhold our support from any candidate, for any office, whom we know to use money or liquor or other corrupt method to secure his nomination. However, this does not indicate that we espouse the cause of any particular candidate.

Bankers Patriotic.

The Kentucky Bankers Association, Group 9, held their annual meeting at Olympia Springs, Bath county, on June 21.

Mr. W. D. Archibald, cashier of the Commercial Bank, attended the meeting and informed a Courier reporter that the intention of the bankers were to stand behind the Government to win the war by buying bonds, loaning money to further the moving crops and all the things recommended by the Government, and to withhold money from purely speculation ventures.

To the Readers of the Courier, The Voters and Citizens of Morgan county.

In regard to a statement of last issue of the Courier by Mr. Joe Roe Wells in personating me, as having asked him of ordering whisky for use in his campaign for jailer, a misunderstanding of the cause perhaps of this statement.

I was told by a gentleman who had been in contact with Mr. Wells had been in contact with him recently, previous to the March term of Court. I made such statement as I received from him to one or two as highly respected citizens as we have, but being misunderstood as to the whisky being ordered for use in the primary.

Also noticed he said he had only tasted whisky once in three years, guess he alludes this to the time when he was drunk on the streets of West Liberty last November election time.

Mr. Wells is a member of the Baptist Church of Wells Union, who so far (from good authority) has not made any acknowledgment before the church for his conduct. I find where Mr. Wells goes he states he is making this race without deputies, which statement according to good authority is false and tells the boys also that I have eight or nine deputies, which again is untrue.

It seems that Mr. Wells is trying to find fault with me, but I assure Mr. Wells and the people in general that I will make no lies to tell, but will treat all my opponents with respect and courtesy and when I am jailer, should Mr. Wells become a prisoner again, I will treat him just as kind as Mr. Combs did and give him the best I have to eat, for I think when a man is jailer he should be courteous toward his prisoners.

I am sorry I had to respond to this, but could not allow any false impression on the people from my opponents only to clear the accusation with due respect to all, and certainly do not wish to sling any mud and hope I will not have to respond again to any statement from my opponents.

When you elect me jailer of Morgan county you elect a sober, truthful, honest man whom you will be proud of.

Yours respectfully,
G. W. STACY.

Let Her Go On and On.

A long-suffering husband had a wife who seemed to be perpetually talking. After driving him almost frantic one evening with her conversation she remarked: "John, I suppose when I die you'll have a mausoleum built in my memory?"

"I will do nothing of the sort," returned the exasperated John. "When you die I will have you cremated and your ashes placed in an hour-glass. Then you can keep on going forever.—Ex.

Day for Clean Elections.

To the people of Morgan county: This letter is addressed to the Democratic voters of Morgan county, individually and collectively. I only address the people in mass, as I am not acquainted with gang politics.

I am frank to say that I may be at some disadvantage in this race for my opponent is a practical and experienced politician, having accumulated his wealth by reason of his holding office, also has the support of the professional politicians. So I must make my appeal for support to the plain Democratic voters, and I must say that to me, a Democrat is just a Democrat, and everyone has the same right and the same voice in the selection of nominees, whether he is rich or poor, has held office or has not, and whether he lives in town, village, river bottom or on the head of the branch.

I am making this race because I regard myself as an honest and plain man and feel that that kind of a man will be appreciated by the citizenship of Morgan County. I have made no money out of what little official position I have held and my experience teaches me to be careful about voting away the money of the good taxpayers, yet where improvements are necessary for the general good, I would not hesitate to act in an official capacity in the same way that a business man would in his own affairs. This is particularly applicable to the proposition of good roads.

It might be said in passing that it was under my short administration as County Judge Protom that state aid for roads was first obtained. This money is still available for road building, although the construction of the road to Index is at least temporarily stopped because of the refusal of a few of the land owners to consent to what I regarded as reasonable terms for a right of way.

Whether it is due to the political methods of my opponent or whether it is due to the political methods of my opponent or whether it is due to the political methods of my opponent, I don't know, but I notice that a report is being circulated to the effect that I will retire from the Judge's race to assist in the election of Mr. Ren F. Nickell for County Clerk. I am not interested in the Clerk's race, and will continue to make this fight as the people's candidate for County Judge, and if such a race can be won without the use of money or whisky, I will be your next County Judge. In this connection, I desire to compliment the other candidates who take this same stand.

Hoping to see you all in person, I am as ever your friend,
Jas. R. DAY, Judge Protom.

Dignity and Impudence.

A trawler one evening came into a port where lay at anchor a destroyer flotilla. She dropped her "hook" foul of the first and second ships and the efforts of the officer of the watch on the leading ship to move her were fruitless.

On the matter being reported to the commodore he went aft and hailed the intruder.

"Hullo, there. You're foul of my billet, and you must clear out and anchor elsewhere. I'm in command of this flotilla—who are you?"

Back came the answer, appealing in its audacity and disregard of service convention:

"Ah'm the Star o' Bethlehem—and Ah've set fo' th' night."—London Opinion.

More to the Purpose.

"Why in the world did you endorse a check for that fellow, when you didn't know him?"

An Insurance Man Tell This One:

"Not long ago there rushed into one of our offices in the South a very excited woman—so excited, in fact, that she was out of breath and could speak with difficulty.

"What's the trouble?" asked one of the clerks.

"I want a policy at once—at once!" exclaimed the woman, when she had recovered sufficiently to articulate. "Our house is on fire.—Ex.

Proving His Words.

My character and reputation having been attacked by my opponent, Mr. G. W. Stacy, who has stated that all of the candidates for Jailer, except himself, were using whiskey in the elections, and that if he could not prove it he would quit the track. I have not ordered nor received whiskey in any quantities for more than two years, and I append the following affidavits of the agents at the various shipping points to bear me out in my statement. I am opposed to the use of liquor in elections or in any way.

In justice to the public I will state that if I am elected that Perry Henry, of Flat Woods, and Faris Hamilton, of Coffee creek, will assist me in waiting on the courts. I believe that the public ought to know who will assist me in these matters:

The affiant D. S. Day, states on oath that Joe Roe Wells has not received at any time within the last two years any liquor from this office, according to the records of this office this June 25th, 1917.

John W. Coffee.

John W. Coffee, candidate for County Attorney, was in town Monday in the interest of his candidacy. He dropped in the Courier office and said that he was in the race and would be until the primary, and that he believed that his chances for winning was good. He pledged himself anew that if he was elected he would vigorously prosecute all violations of the law and look closely after the interests of the tax payers of the county.

Abode of the Mastodon.

Cyril Wood, one of the best-known mining men of the Tolstoi district, has just shipped to a San Francisco friend a mastodon tusk which he found on his Boob Creek claims. The tusk is just short of nine feet long and is in a practically perfect state of preservation. Wood says that mastodon tusks and teeth are so common as not to attract particular attention throughout the Boob Creek region, many being much larger than the one he is shipping out, but none he has seen so well preserved. Scores of tusks, teeth and bones of these prehistoric animals have been found in the Riley & Mounier workings on Boob Creek, and in their drifts there is a pugent odor which is attributed by the miners to the age-old remains of the mammoths, found there. While not offensive, like the odor of recently decayed animals, the smell is strong enough, according to Wood, to be readily distinguishable at considerable distances.—Ex.

A Freak Rose.

Mrs. C. C. Maxey showed a Courier reporter Sunday a rose, or rather some roses that were unique, to say the least. There were several roses in the bunch that grew on the branch, the roses on one side of the bunch were pure white, on the other side they were deep red and in the center the roses were white on one side and red on the other, the line of white and red being straight across the bunch.

From Grain Made Into Whiskey Last Year.

The New York Tribune of March 4 is authority for the following figures:

From the grain made into whiskey and beer last year:

4,000,000 people could have been supplied with rye bread for 100 days.

56,000,000 people could have been supplied with corn meal for 100 days.

16,000,000 people could have been supplied with rice for 100 days.

100,000,000 people could have been supplied with 18 pounds of rice each.

100,000,000 people could have been supplied with one gallon of molasses each.

208,200,000 loaves of bread could have been made from the rye.—Ex.

Kaiser's Nephew Would Fight Against Germany.

Detroit—Johan Wilhelm, nephew of the Kaiser, would take up the gun against Germany—if the age limit of selective service were raised to include him.

Count von Hohenzollern is his title. He was born in Detroit and has been here for the last seven years. The Count's identity was disclosed when he applied to Marshal Behrenot for permission to enter districts restricted to Germans. While he spent the greater part of his forty-seven years in Germany Johan was born here while his parents were touring the United States. His father is a brother of Bill Hohenzollern.—Cincinnati Post.

When to Quit Advertising.

reproduce this one, says the Atlanta Constitution:

When the grasshopper ceases to hop

And the cow quits bawling,

When the fishes no longer flop

And the baby stops squalling,

When the dunner no longer duns

And the hoot owl quits hooting,

When the rivers ever cease to run

And the burglar stops his looting,

When the vine no longer twines

And the sky-ark stops his larking,

When the sun no longer shines.

The young man quits his sparking,

When the heavens begin to drop,

And the old maids stop advising,

Then—it is time to shut up shop

And quit your advertising.

Cat That Went Back.

"They say the streets in Boston are frightfully crooked."

"They are. Why, do you know when I first went there I could hardly find my way around."

"That must be embarrassing."

"It is. The first week I was there I wanted to get rid of an old cat we had, and my wife got me to take it to the river a mile away."

"And you lost the cat alright?"

"Lost nothing! I never would have found my way home if I hadn't followed the cat!"—Ex.

Clay Arnett Shot At.

As Deputy U. S. Marshal, Clay Arnett, was leaving Paintsville, on last Sunday morning, he was fired upon by ambushed would-be assassins and narrowly escaped death. One of the bullets passed through his hat brim and others came uncomfortably close. He saw two men in the under bush and returned fire and they retreated. The shooting took place about five miles from Paintsville and at about 8 o'clock in the morning.

KEEP THE DOLLARS MOVING.

Business is activity. Stagnation means decay. As there can be no life in stagnant waters, just so there can be none in stagnant business.

Get this fact well in mind: Business activity comes not from hoarding, but from spending.

What would the world do without its spendthrifts? They may carry a virtue to an extreme, but as to the effect on business, better that than the hoarding of the miser.

We are urged to rally to the colors; we are urged to enter the army of the furrows; we are urged to consecrate our all upon the altar of our country, and we are urged to practice the strictest kind of economy.

The advice is conflicting. Our advisers should employ a different term from "economy." It is right that we eliminate waste—wanton waste that brings good to none.

But quit spending? Never! That way lies business stagnation, want, and ultimate panic.

Imagine a community entirely independent of the outside world. It has a combined capital of $100,000, which is sufficient to carry on all of its business. But the cry of "hard times" goes out, purses are closed, and the result is inevitable.

The world is composed of communities. In and between these communities the public life blood (gold) must flow if life be sustained. But stop the flow of that life blood and industrial decay and death is the inevitable result.

We must earn, and keep on earning. And equally as important, we must spend, and keep on spending. Not waste, not reckless extravagance, but systematic, intelligent spending, that shall keep the golden life blood bounding through the commercial arteries of the nation, stimulating every nook and corner of the land to a well-nigh superhuman exertion.

We must keep the armies of dollars moving if we keep the living armies progressing. The idleness of one will insure the impotence of the other.

PRIMARY DRAWING NEAR.

The August primary election is drawing near. Only about five weeks intervene between this date and the 4th of August. The time will soon slip away. It will pass all too swiftly for some, while others will wish it soon over.

Now don't get the idea that we are going to give you a great long spiel about the qualifications of the candidate you should vote for. We are not going to do anything of the kind. Anybody is privileged to read this who cares to take the time, but it is intended especially for the candidates—the fellows who are so solicitous about the well-being of all and sundry, the dear people, with never a thought for the interests of themselves and theirs.

On the books of this office are quite a number of accounts, some small, some pretty good size, for advertising and job work done in the interest of candidates before the coming primary. A candidate who owes a great big printer's bill on the day of the election, and who has not made specific and satisfactory arrangement to pay, will be a mighty good man to vote against. Not only that—he will be a good man to tell others to vote against, because a man who will not pay the printer will not do to trust in any official capacity from school trustee to President of the United States.

And there are more men of this class than one would suspect. We have some "purty" little accounts on our books, anywhere from two to six years old, and you would be surprised to see some of the names. They are not all against defeated candidates either. Some of the successful ones failed to pay. A good plan for a candidate to follow is to pay up in full before the primary—several days before. A big printer's bill is a heavy liability which no candidate with ordinary business ability will attempt to carry through the election. For each dollar of the account he might lose a vote, or half a vote, and that might turn the scale against him.

This article is not meant for any certain person, but is a piece of friendly, gratis advice for all to whom it may apply.

SCISSORS & PASTE

Good Things Clipped from Our Exchanges with an Occasional Comment By the Editor.

The Champion of Personal Liberty.

He feels pretty strongly about the thing. He really doesn't care much about liquor himself, just a little highball now and then to see the foundations of personal liberty, for which our fathers fought, endangered by those fanatics and hypocrites who would make it illegal for him to be sociable. If a gentleman can't take a drink when he wants one, he might just as well throw over democracy as a bitter mockery. It's the principle of the thing that he stands for—personally, as he said before, he can take liquor or leave it. It is nothing in his life. Furthermore, he doubts very much that there is anywhere near so much misery caused by drink as the antisaloon people make out. He has seen just about as many people suffering from other causes, overeating, for example. There is no reason why a great majority of moderate, sensible drinkers should be made go without because a few misuse liquor. No, it wouldn't mean anything to him to go without it. With prostitution and gambling it is different. Personal liberty is not a thing to be considered there—it is the public good.—Collier's Weekly.

Preventing Soil Erosion.

All methods of preventing soil erosion are directed toward lessening the amount of water that runs off the surface and increasing the amount that sinks into the soil. If all the water that falls on a given area were absorbed by the soil there could be no erosion. For this reason vegetation is useful because it checks the flow of water and thus affords more time for the process of absorption. Hence the movement for the more general use of cover crops in the South. In addition to retarding the flow of water such crops keep the soil more or less open by the penetration of their roots, and in this way further facilitate absorption. Deep plowing produces somewhat the same effect, but does not, of course, add any organic matter to the soil which promotes the granulation of the soil particles and thus produces larger spaces between the particles for the water to sink through.—Home and Farm.

Don't Harvest Your Wheat Too Early.

Owing to high prices of flour it may be the tendency of many farmers to harvest their wheat crop too early. In some sections of the State the crop is promising, but to harvest before the berry has had time to mature would mean a big loss to the farmers. Great care should be exercised in harvesting wheat to get the largest yields and grain that will make the best grade of flour.

Wheat should be harvested when the grain is the dough stage. At this stage the berries can be indented with the finger nails, but they are not milky. Harvesting at this stage insures the largest yields. If harvesting is begun before the grain is in the dough stage there will be considerable loss due to shrinkage, and in the poor quality of flour milled from such grain. If harvesting is deferred until the grain is dead ripe much grain will be lost by shattering.

The feeding value of the straw is decreased if it is cut after the grain has passed through the dough stage.—Bi-Weekly Farm Bulletin.

Wasted Land Along Fences.

Few farmers stop to think how much land is taken up by fences. The fence itself takes little room, but it is impossible to grow anything for several feet on both sides of the fence. The department of agriculture reports that the ordinary rail fence occupies a strip over 12 feet wide. About 3,600 feet of such a fence takes up an acre of land. Hedges take up a little more than the rail fence, the width varying according to the width of the hedge row.—Ex.

Industrial Gospel.

A very practical contribution to the endless discussion of this subject was made recently in a red-hot two-page speech as printed in the "Engineering Magazine." The meat of the thing is in the paragraphs given below. Not only is this the true gospel of our industrial future, but a lot of employers are practicing it now:

The trouble with you men is that you are executives, and not human beings. You are so swelled up by the title of general manager, or superintendent, or something of that kind, that you get entirely out of touch with the common everyday human being; and, worse than that, you get together in boards of directors and put across things as a body that every one of you would be ashamed to do as an individual. The real thing is not to fight labor; get out and find out what's wrong, and fight that!

Loyalty? Why, if you men will throw off your executive frills and get back to human beings yourselves, and meet your employees on the same level, you will find yourselves in the same fix that I'm in—the people in your plant will work for you and fight for you, and will make you rich in spite of yourselves.

In eight years our sales have increased from $500,000 to $14,000,000 a year.—Collier's Weekly

Not Satisfied.

The lady had heard a stranger in a railway carriage say that if any man could see himself intoxicated again, and having a husband addicted to the alcoholism, and also plenty of money, she thought of experimenting. The cinematograph operator whom she engaged was not kept waiting long for an opportunity of filming the errant husband, and in the presence of relations the subject was privileged to behold himself on the screen. He was very quiet throughout, and gravely left the room, which the here thought was a good sign, and had not been left the to find him to earth eventually in the club, busy—as an attendant stated—with his fifteenth cocktail.

"Look here," said the brother, "I didn't think I'd find you back at the game." "Didn't you?" innocently asked the subject. "Well, the fact of the matter is, I'm not satisfied with that film!"—Exchange.

Off With the Old Love.

A photographer had taken a portrait of a young woman. After an examination she took a dozen of them. A few days later this same young woman entered the photographer's studio with the dozen cabinet photos that had been made of her about a week before.

"What!" exclaimed the photographer in dismay. I thought they were very successful." "Oh, yes," she said, with a smile, "they are successful. I only want you to touch out the ring. I have a new young man."—Ex.

Suggestion to Voters.

A good plan for voters to follow in the coming primary would be to consult a copy of the Courier just before going to the poles—look down the announcement column carefully, and if they are in doubt about for whom to vote, pick out a name from the list of announcements.

Teachers Endorse Davis.

To the voters of Morgan county:
I publish below excerpts from letters received by me from teachers throughout the county during the past few months, for your information:

"We, the undersigned teachers of Morgan county, believing that experience renders one more efficient in his line of work, petition Jas. W. Davis to become a candidate for re-nomination for re-election for the following reasons:

"First. That you and the County Board of Education have given us better school houses and equipment.

"Second. That you have been fair, impartial and courteous to all alike.

"Third. That you have always been obliging and fair with those having dealings with you.

"Fourth. That you have been fair with the distribution of the tax fund of the county, giving each section of the county a square deal.

"Fifth. That you have been a stay to those struggling with penury and adversity.

"Sixth. That you know every teacher and trustee in the county and are familiar with all the duties of the office. Considering all these things you can better serve the schools of the county."

The above is a true copy of the letters I have in my possession which are signed by eighty of the ninety teachers in Morgan county. I am withholding the names to these letters because of the fact that many of them have near relatives who are candidates for office. If any one doubts the truth or validity of these letters, I can and will produce the originals thereof upon application at my office in West Liberty.

These letters prove that the teachers, who are in better position to judge of the merits of my work as County Superintendent of Schools, fully realize and appreciate the work I have been doing since I assumed control of your educational interests. I am making this race on the merits of my work in the past, and if re-elected will be better prepared to continue my efforts for the up-building and development of our educational system.

I am deeply sensible of the overwhelming support you gave me four years ago, and I trust you will approve of my administration by joining the eighty teachers who have so unqualifiedly testified to their appreciation of my efforts, by voting for me on August fourth.

Gratefully and sincerely yours,
JAS. W. DAVIS.

Your Letter Went Astray.

Because you forgot to address it.

Because you forgot to stamp it.

Because you forgot to write the town or the state on the envelop.

Because you didn't write the street and number plainly.

Because you used a once-cancelled stamp.

Because you used internal revenue stamps instead of postage stamps.

Because you used a foreign stamp.

Because you wrote the address so badly that no one could read it.

Because you wrote the address on top of the envelop and it was obliterated by the postoffice dating, receiving and canceling stamps.

Because you put your letter in a blank envelope and sealed it and forwarded it to the dead letter office, where thousands upon thousands of valuable letters are daily destroyed because the people are either careless or ignorant of the postal laws.—Ex.

The Rooster.

One hot night—'twas in July—
I slept at Farmer Brewster's,
But long ere sunrise lit the sky
Was awakened by the roosters.

And then at breakfast I made a pun,

The farmer couldn't catch it,
Although in serious matters he
Was sharp as any hatchet.

And then he said with look a-skance,

"With fun you surely poke us,"
I said, "My friend, though in July,

You raise the early crow-cuss,"

The Country Editor.

He might have been a millionaire,
And won financial fame,
Or sat in a director's chair,
Had money been his aim;

He chose instead to spend his years
In service poorly paid,
And with the paste pot and the sheeps
A humble living made.

He chronicled the town's events—
The local goings-on;
His fellow townsmen's hopes and bents

Inspired his lexicon,
He felt the public pulse that beat
Around him, and he tried
To make his little country sheet

A thing of local pride.
Unselfishly, with all his heart,
He strove but to upbuild

His town, of which he was a part,
With great ambition filled.
He spoke well of his fellow men;

He praised when praise was due;
He wielded but a kindly pen,
And—no reward he drew.

Editing a Newspaper.

Editing a newspaper is a pleasing business—if you can stand it.
If subscribers want to bawl out anybody—the editor's the goat.

If business is bad—it's because the editor wants too much money for his advertising space.

If business is good—advertising hasn't anything to do with it, but conditions are right.

If we print what pleases the people—that is our duty and we deserve no credit.

If we print what displeases—we are a grouch, and a craphanger, and don't deserve the patronage of the public.

If we print the news as it is actually—people call us over the phone and tell us to stop their paper.

If we garble it—they tell us we are subsidized by the corporate interests.

Editing a newspaper is a pleasing business—we like it.—Bristoe (Mo.) Enterprise.

Pendleton's Promise.

To the voters of the Magisterial district No. 7 of Morgan county:

I have been asked by many of the tax-payers in my district for a statement. I submit to you Mr. Voter what I stand for if nominated and elected. I stand first for equal rights to all citizens, regardless of race or previous condition of servitude, the rich and poor alike.

I stand for better Morgan county, better citizens, better schools and one hundred cents to every dollar of your tax money. I stand for equal distribution of your tax money to all citizens alike regardless of your politics or religious views, all working together in building up our country and her morals, protecting her schools and all other good institutions which is helping us to make Morgan county one of the best in the state, as one is a lamp to our children's feet, the other a light to our pathway, they are the foundation upon which good citizenship is founded.

I stand for better public roads, and for our tax money to be equally distributed on all the public roads, the men who work the roads six days out of the year who are road hands to have the jobs on the roads; to let all jobs out by contract to the lowest and best bidder.

I am strictly against the illegal sale of whiskey in my district.

I respectfully submit this to the voters of my district for your deliberate consideration and ask you to read it and if you have confidence in me that I am qualified and will do this I ask your support in this contest.

Writing on the Wall.

The mills of financial advertising gods, like all the others, may grind slowly, but they also grind exceedingly small, and when finally they shall have reached the conclusion that the public is worthy of approach in matters of financial moment the country publisher will reap his proper harvest. And it will be a golden harvest. No clearer writing has been seen on the wall than that just written by Francis H. Sisson of the Guaranty Trust company of New York for the benefit of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

He calls for the big interests to engage in paid advertising in newspapers. He points out concrete instances of what advertising has done in matters of finance. He points out the time is at hand for financial interests to realize the true situation in this country and to meet it by paid publicity, the greatest force he knows of. The interests may be slow to acknowledge the force of this argument, but it must be admitted sooner or later. It must be admitted because it is true. It is true that whenever a great popular subscription is to be raised the only place it can be effected is in the country. It is true that the stability of the country would be much enhanced by a greater bondholding class among our ordinary citizens, who today know little of finance. It is true that in this country there are fewer holders of government securities than in any country in the world. And it is true that the only cure for all this is paid advertising in the newspapers—and in country newspapers.

Great financial interests are fast seeing they must take the public into their confidence. They see that it is not healthy for large bond issues, even industrial bond issues, to be held in the hands of a few men. They are beginning to see not only the potential market in the country, but the wonderfully steady effect such bondholding would have on the business structure. Irresponsible criticism and fault finding will soon give way to sane reason when education reaches the minds of the people through their own participation in big business.

Hurry the day when the great corporations shall see the wisdom of going to the public openly through the advertising columns of the country press. The day of the dark lantern has gone.—American Press.

GRASSY CREEK.

Quite a crowd attended church at Grassy Lick Sunday. Elders C. T. Walter, L. A. Music and Cohiza Helton did the preaching.

Joe Rue Wells, one of our candidates for County Attorney, was shaking hands with the voters of Grassy last week. John insists that he is in real earnest about wanting the people to vote for him.

Mrs. B. F. McClure, of Bourbon county, has been visiting her old friends and relatives on Grassy recently.

Elder W. L. Gevedon went to Richmond to fill his regular appointment Saturday and Sunday.

We are glad to see that our Senatorial race was settled so satisfactorily, and that Dr. J. D. Whiteaker is to be our standard bearer. He is the right man in the right place and will easily win over any opposition.

I am glad that some of the candidates for the various offices have taken a bold stand against the use of whisky to procure their elections. Will they make their pledges good?

A good way to get on to any violation of these pledges would be to have the good men in each precinct keep an eye upon the fellows who usually carry the stakes and whisky and ascertain who they are for, and that will tell the tale, for it goes without saying that candidates don't put money and whisky in the hands of their enemies.

Methods that the devil would blush to be found in the company of the candidate who would publicly denounce the use of money and whisky and then sneakily slip it into every precinct in the county.

I had rather undertake to swim the Atlantic and take the chances than to take the oath that men have to take who get in office by bribery.

"Give Him the Dog."

Mack Oldfield on last Friday killed a blowing viper on the farm of Boone Oldfield, in Morgan county, which measured six feet six and one-half inches in length and twenty-one and one-half inches in circumference. It could be heard for 78 yards very distinctly. After being shot twice through the head with a rifle, it bit Oldfield's dog, which died in two hours. After killing it they cut it open and found thirty-two eggs as large as pheasant eggs.—Hazel Green Herald of June 9, 1886.

Some snake story, the above, and was probably given wide credence 31 years ago. But anybody who know aught of "snakeology" (and most people know nowadays) knows that the viper has no fangs at all. They know that its only means of defense is its "blow." They know that when it blows it emits a poisonous vapor which, if inhaled in sufficient quantities, will cause instant death. They know, furthermore, that like the opossum when it is attacked and wounded it will feign death, often so successfully that it will deceive its adversary. It has one weak point, however, which gives it away. When playing "possum" it will not lie otherwise than on its back. It will essay to bite itself on the the back and then turn ever and die. But secrete yourself and see how quickly you are undecieved. When it thinks you are gone it will turn over and crawl away.

The viper is a wily serpent. It must have been a viper that got the upper hand of old Mother Eve.

Campfire Girls.

The Camp Fire Girls of America have organized in West Liberty with 14 members, and elected Mrs. John B. Phipps Guardian.

They gave a play at the West Liberty Theater on Tuesday night of last week, entitled "Any Girl" and despite the fearful storm, had a fairly good crowd.

The purpose of the organization is to teach the girls to be self-reliant, active and many other things which go to make up the true woman.

Egg-Laying Contest.

With wheat so high, poultry-men will be interested to learn that on the United States Department of Agriculture experiment farm excellent egg-laying results were secured with a wheatless ration. Thirty Leghorn pullets to which this ration has been fed for 1½ years produced an average of 137.3 eggs per hen for the pullet year. This compares favorably with egg yields secured on other rations containing wheat and therefore more expensive. This pen, moreover, during the first 16 weeks of its second year has an averaged 28.5 eggs per hen, 17.5 eggs per hen being produced in March.

The same wheatless ration has been fed since last November to a pen of Buff Orpington pullets, which have laid 53 eggs per hen in 20 week and hold the highest egg record of any of the large feeding pens of pullets at the farm this year. Two other pens, however, are less than 1 egg per hen behind this pen. The ration used was as follows:

SCRATCH MIXTURE.

2 pounds cracked corn.

1 pound oats.

DRY MASH.

3 pounds corn meal.

1 pound beef scrap.

The scratch mixture was fed sparingly, so that the hens ate about equal parts of this mixture and of the dry mash. The total grain consumption of feed for the year was 52 pounds, of which 26 pounds was scratch mixture. Throughout the year it took 4.6 pounds to produce a dozen eggs.

This scratch mixture, with wheat $2.57, cracked corn $1.35, and oats 70 cents per bushel, is 49 cents per hundred pounds cheaper than the regular mixture of equal parts cracked corn, wheat, and oats. Another mash which is slightly cheaper than this one is made of 4 per cent each bran and middlings, 26 per cent beef scrap, and 66 per cent corn meal.

If the wheat is omitted from the ration, it is very essential to feed a considerable proportion of beef scrap in the mash, but with present prices beef scrap is one of the cheapest poultry feeds, considering its high protein content.

These experiments, the specialists say, prove that wheat is not essential in an egg laying ration and that excellent results can be secured by using corn and oats as a scratch mixture, provided this is fed with a good mash containing 25 per cent beef scrap.

That the present dog law, intended to protect sheep raisers, is grossly inadequate and does not compass the aim intended has been apparent for years. It is a notorious fact that the destruction done by worthless cur owned by irresponsible individuals, is all out of proportion to the benefits, under the law, of reimbursement from a tax on dogs. The dogs which do the damage are not taxed, as a rule, for those which are almost entirely town dogs and not guilty of destructive work.

The destroyer is usually some prowling nondescript, "part hound and the balance just dog" with a nominal owner, who has neither property to protect nor social standing to uphold and who promptly disowns the animal when caught red handed in his butchery. It is small consolation to shoot a worthless brute—we mean the dog of course—after he has wrought enough damage in a night to more than compass the entire amount of the dog tax revenue allotted to the whole county. The knowledge that neither the owner nor his dog pays any part of the tax supposed to reimburse the owner of the sheep, does not tend to make him feel kindly toward an impotent law.—Wilmore Enterprise.

Embarrassing Mistake.

"I guess I'll keep away from the music room hereafter," said Mr. Cumrox.

Don't you care for music?"

"Yes. But not all kinds. I try to be classical to please the family. The other day when we were giving a concert, I broke in ahead of time and rapturously applauded the piano tuner.—Ex.

We cannot honor our country with too deep a reverence; we cannot love her with an affection too pure and fervent; we cannot serve her with an energy of purpose or a faithfulness of zeal too steadfast and ardent.—Grimké.

He who loathes war, and will do everything in his power to avert it, but who will, in the last extremity, encounter its perils, from love of country and of home—who is willing to sacrifice himself, and all that is dear to him in life, to promote the well-being of his fellowman, will ever receive a worthy home.—Abbott.

Federal Court Witnesses.

Valuable Dog.

The minister delivered a sermon of but ten minutes' duration—a most unusual effort for him.

At the conclusion of his remarks he explained: "I regret to inform you, brethren, that my dog this morning playfully ate the portion of my sermon that I have not delivered. Let us pray.

After the service a man who was a member of another church shook the preacher's hand heartily and said:

"Doctor, I should like to know whether that dog of yours has any pups. If so, I want to get one to give to our minister."—Ex.

HANDS, ARMS, LIMBS ASLEEP

And Was Run-Down, Weak and Nervous, Says Florida Lady.

Five Bottles of Cardui Made Her Well.

Kathleen, Fla.—Mrs. Dallas Erine, of this place, says: "After the birth of my last child...I got very much run-down and weakened, so much that I could hardly do anything at all. I was so awfully nervous that I could scarcely endure the least noise. My condition was getting worse all the time...

I knew I must have some relief or I would soon be in the bed and in a serious condition for I felt so badly and was so nervous and weak I could hardly live. My husband asked Dr. about my taking Cardui. He said, 'It's a good medicine, and good for that trouble,' so he got me 5 bottles. After about the second bottle I felt greatly improved. Before taking it my limbs and hands and arms would go to sleep. After taking it, however, this poor circulation disappeared. My strength came back to me and I was soon on the road to health. After the use of about 5 bottles, I could do all my housework and attend to my six children besides."

You can feel safe in giving Cardui a thorough trial for your troubles. It contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs, but is composed of mild, vegetable, medicinal ingredients with no bad after-effects. Thousands of women have voluntarily written, telling of the good Cardui has done them. It should help you, too. Try it.

HOVERMALE IS EXPERIENCED

Why Hesitate

To Elect a Man that You Know will Give You Results for your County?

Vote for the Good of your County by voting for a man who has proven himself an efficient County Attorney.

Would you hire a man to do a job of work for you whose ability and fitness for the job was not known to you, and when you could get a man that you were certain knew how?

Then, will you give less consideration to the welfare of your county, and elect an untried man of whose ability and willingness to make a good County Attorney you do not know, when a man who has the experience and a good record for faithful, tax-saving, law-enforcing service can be had?

Would that be good public business?

Elect

L. T. Hovermale
County Attorney

And you will get

Progressive, businesslike service
Sensible county management
Strict enforcement of the law

And full information as to how your tax money is expended; how much the county owes and what it is for, and 313 days' service.

HOVERMALE WON'T FAIL

In selecting your County Court Clerk Faithful, Efficient Service merits reward.

Ren F. Nickell

has demonstrated that he is a capable, efficient, courteous official. You know that he will be again. Then why vote to try the experiment of breaking in a new man?

Their politics will not be questioned, and who will dare say that they will not vote for the best interests of the children. Men may vote for or support a man whom they know is unfit; yet a mother, guided by her maternal love, will vote for the best interests of her child.

Men, in the hurly-burly of life, forget the duty they owe to children—a mother never forgets.

Mothers, do not fail to vote because you are not interested in politics. You are not mixing in politics, but voting for the interests of your child. Inquire about us candidates, in this race; consider in whose hands your son or daughter would be safest and vote accordingly.

Respectfully,
